The regional brewery in Einbeck is just a 2-minute drive away. Beer has been brewed here since 1378, focussing on the region of northern Germany. In addition to the classics, you will also find a changing seasonal beer on the menu. The Einbeckers attach great importance to the origin of the ingredients and source them for the beer directly from the region: since March 2021, some of the malting barley has been sourced from various fields in southern Lower Saxony. Active environmental protection and the preservation of nature also play an important role at the brewery: only natural products are used.
